

OTHER RESPONSES to the question: “For troop activities (day trips and overnights) how close is the nearest Girl Scout camp from where your troop is located?” (Multiple responses are noted in italics.)

- 1-2 hrs but not in our council; our closest in-council camp is 2-3 hours away now after they closed the one 45 minutes away
- Our Council's camp is 2-3 hours away. Camps owned by a neighbor Council are closer to us than our own camps.
- The one run by our council is 5 hrs. away - there are closer ones, but they belong to another council
- 3-4 hrs. Used to be < 1 hr.
- 45 mins but the camp is unsafe. Swinging bridge is unstable and the stove in the kitchen singed co-leader's eyebrows when flames shot out. They have a new site manager and I can't wait to see what she does to the camp.
- Camp 30 minutes away but is scheduled to close. Next closest camp is over an hour with no traffic.
- Closest are within an hour but both of those camps are up for sale now so our girls have less places to go
- Closest one we don't camp at, we camp at the furthest.
- Limited use Day camp is a 1/2 hour away but our main camp is almost 2 hours
- Manipines is closest, but Martha Johnston has activities
- Not sure of exact location. 3-5 hours away. We have a facility about 1 1/2-2 hours away, but they don't do camps there anymore.
- Now that they are closing the only one in this area we will have to travel a min. of 2 hours if there is NOT traffic.
- One camp is 10 min away but our council never uses that property but always chooses one that is 1.5 or 2hrs or farther away.
- Our council has 3 camps some close some too far
- Our local camp is closed for renovation without an opening date. Travel to nearest camps are 2-3+ hours
- Technically 45 minutes, but the camp isn't safe. The next closest one is 2 3/4hrs away
- We have a camp that is close, but girls are not interested in going there b/c they have been there several times
- We have one that I can walk to from my backdoor, but it is up for sale :/ the next closest is little over an hour away.
