- N/A, no resident camp, no week-long programs (7 responses)

Single responses...

- $200-$300 in neighboring council (closest camp)
- $245 - 870 depending on the program
- $300-550
- $350.00-$550.00
- $400 and up depending on camp
- $500-$1000
- $60 per night per girl. I have 17 girl scouts
- $650/$1600.00
- 350 for three days / two nights
- Depends on a "scale" that I never have understood
- Depends on type of camp program and age group. Very few girls from our service unit go to resident camp because of camp fees and distance parents have to travel.
- Doesn't care to go
- GSOSW tiered camp pricing:

- I personally have no interest in resident camp for my child. I have heard other parents comment that it's very expensive.
- In the neighborhood of 300 for a week stay
- Mid $100's
- Multiple amounts
- Only can find day camp info
- Or more it's like daycare
- Our camps are on the lower end, since they offer so little in programming
- Sliding scale, probably averages $400-$600

- This can range from $500-$1500 for one week. But I only saw 3 choices this year for an actual whole week
- Three tier pricing with the highest level covering the whole cost. about $900 on the high side and $250 on the low end
- Varies from $400-$700 or so
- Varies from $455-$545
- Varies from a low of $245 for a non-specialty program to over $500 for a "travel" program to camp or water activities in another state.
- Varies on which camp facility and what the program is
- We have a tiered payment system, but it usually costs between $400-600
- We have never done this, it never fits with our schedule
- We went from one week to 4 days for most sessions. We had a mix-up in mailing, and only new girls got a mailer. Then the mailing addresses were wrong. We wound up putting all camps at one camp location and limiting days of camp. It was NOT a good camp year last year. Est. of fees: $400.
