

OTHER RESPONSES to the question: “Does your council help you promote volunteer-led outdoor events?”

Multiple responses...

- A few (2 responses)
- Depends (2 responses)
- Not really (2 responses)
- Rarely/occasionally (7 responses)
- Sometimes (10 responses)

Single responses...

- Allowed to post on council website
- Any cost (flyers) is ours
- Claim to .... but not really
- Depends on if it is a completely volunteer-led event or a volunteer-led/planned event sponsored by council.
- Don't think we ask them to
- Half heartedly.
- It is listed on the website and that is where you register- I have no idea if it is actually advertised to the equivalent that the Dessert First fund raiser is.
- If Council is aware and asked to help they will.
- If we ask they will put it in the newsletter
- Most of the time if we ask
- Never asked
- No and They require so much paperwork
- Not needed. Camps are too small to accommodate my service unit of 500 girls.
- Not SU camporees
- Only if the $ goes to them.
- Only posting on calendar
- Only to service unit
- Our paid council, in my opinion, is not very helpful at all.
- Reluctantly
- Service unit does not hold outdoor events
- Sorta. With persistence from the volunteer who is doing it.
- SUs can advertise in the monthly SUM newsletter
- They post it/email it, which leaves out people w/out internet

- They sometimes put them on the calendar, but not always right away.
- They tell us we can offer it to other service units in "our circle."
- We are a large SU and typically our events fill up with just our SU participants
- We do it ourselves Council has a E news
- We run them as the community
- Yes when able to
- Yes, but it's minimal. They collect registration and help us make copies. That's about it.
- You can have it put in the e-newsletter

Responses are presented "as is". They have not been edited for spelling or grammar.